Kiwanis Club Hears Inspiring Address Last Night at Joint Pineville and Middlesboro Ladies' Night

MUSICAL PROGRAM OF EXCEPTIONAL VALUE HEARD

"The best ladies' night ever held" was the unanimous verdict of those who attended the Kiwanis Club banquet at the Hotel Cumberland last night. There were two hundred and twenty men and women there representing the Middlesboro and Pineville clubs. The program from start to finish was a great success, and the entire occasion is one to be long remembered. No ladies' night will be held again until June.

A. P. Liebig, president of the Middlesboro club, opened the evening with an address of welcome to the Pineville Club. The response from Pineville was made by the Rev. Howard Brazelton, pastor of the Christian Church there. He made an eloquent plea for good will between Middlesboro and Pineville, urging them to work together, not burying rivalry, but making sure always that it is the right kind of rivalry.

The meeting was then turned over to the chairman, T. R. Hill, who, in glowing terms, introduced the speaker of the evening, Hon. George Colvin, state superintendent of public instruction. The latter's address was one of the most eloquent, interesting and instructive talks heard in Middlesboro for a long time.

"This southeastern section, is destined to control Kentucky financially, industrially and politically," Mr. Colvin said in beginning, "the leadership of the state rightfully belongs here where possibilities are unlimited, if you but measure up to your opportunities."

Mollowing up his idea by showing that these opportunities lay on the boys and girls, he said: "The challenge to you today is to match the patriotism of war with the patriotism of peace to be willing to live for the country our soldiers in war were willing to die for. There is now threatening the shores of America an invasion of ideas more menacing than any hostile nation. If we hope to keep our American ideals and institutions we must meet our peace obligations."

Kentucky Schools Unsatisfactory
"Kentucky's public school system is unsatisfactory," he continued. "Her greatest possession is her boys and girls but they can not realize their possibilities unless they are developed to the utmost. Schools and roads the two most potent factors in this development are costly, certainly but bad schools and bad roads cost more than good ones in the long run. We must count in the tax of ignorance which includes lawlessness, crime, diseased bodies and minds neglected, resources undeveloped minds and tragedy everywhere. The chap in the mountain cabin or coal miner's shack is entitled to exactly the same privileges as our own children and there is no safety for any of us except in the highest development of all of us."

Mr. Colvin complimented Middlesboro on its school improvement and on having Supt. Bradner as administrator but asked: "Do your county schools measure up to your Middlesboro schools?" He continued: "You can not look for progress and contentment in Kentucky unless you secure for all of the people economic prosperity and economic justice, and this comes only through education. I want every boy and girl in Kentucky developed to the highest, then given a chance to use their powers. The greatest educational need of Kentucky is not more money, but a strengthening of the administrative status of

RETURN TO GOVERNMENT

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals, provided no better offer is available and conditioned upon actual production of nitrogen fertilizer at the rate of forty thousand tons per year, was recommended in a special report to the American Farm Federation by Bernard M. Baruch, war time chairman of war industries board, today. The engineer's report on the project which accompanied the recommendation said that even though Ford's offer was ridiculous, it promises greater financial return to the government than any other plan.

city, county and state schools, and we can have it if we want it, if public sentiment is behind it. "We aren't going to have good schools, though," Mr. Colvin continued, "until politics are expelled from their administration. I am a loyal member of the Republican party, I honor its leaders, its principles and its history but I would despise any party if it any longer robbed the mountain boy and girls of their rights."

Tells of Politics in Education
The speaker then told of the fight that had been made to take the appointment of county superintendent out of politics and place it on a merit basis and he made a plea for the two educational amendments defeated last legislature, one taking the office of school superintendent out of politics, and the other, providing equalization of education, with the same privileges to rural districts as cities.

"In many places roads will have to come before schools," the speaker said commending the progress in road building in this section and complimenting Senator White Moss and Judge J. F. Bosworth for their work in connection with it. "As soon as a good road system is perfected here," he declared, "this section will be the playground of the nation. Your Pineville is far more beautiful and impressive than New Hampshire's Great Stone Face but because no Hawthorne has ever immortalized it the world does not know it."

Mr. Colvin closed his address with a plea for the teacher. "The lives of your children are being molded by the public school teachers," he declared. "The battleground of the preservation of American ideals is in the school room. We must uphold our teachers see that they get better salaries and learn to respect undividedly the teaching profession."

"An enjoyable musical program followed this address. Mrs. J. W. Charlton and Mrs. T. R. Hill sang beautifully "Last Night" and a short encore. Mrs. R. M. Watt of Pineville, whose rich contralto voice has won recognition throughout the state, sang, "Friend o' Mine," and an encore. Then the Cumberland Quartet, composed of R. B. Hatfield, W. H. Smith, Warren Seale and Ernest Warren, sang several highly appreciated numbers.

Winners of ladies' prizes were: Mrs. P. Card, R. K. Judy's prize; Mrs. T. R. Ware, W. C. Stair's prize; Lisa J. Akins, E. S. Helburn's prize; Miss Mary Foley, J. E. Evans' prize; Marilyn Morrison, J. W. Wilson's prize; Louise Galloway, P. M. Parson's prize. Dr. T. H. Cudd and Miss Minnie Perkins won prizes in contests. The silent boost was given by Warren P. Bash Co.

GEORGE LANSBURY, M. P., ADDRESSING UNEMPLOYMENT MEETING IN TRAFALGAR SQUAREW. E. GUNN LOSES SUIT VS. MONARCH

Case Occupies Entire Time Yesterday—Circuit Court Term Here Closes Tomorrow

Acting under instructions of Judge J. G. Forrester, the jury returned a verdict for the defendant in the case of W. E. Gunn, operator of Lower Hignite Coal company, vs. The Monarch Coal company in circuit court yesterday afternoon. The case, which involved an alleged breach of contract, was lost by the defendant because it had exceeded its powers as a corporation.

The contention of the plaintiff was that defendant had violated its contract to supply plaintiff with two cars of coal weekly for a period of seven months at 80 cents per ton. Defendant contended that plaintiff had violated other contracts and had suffered little, if any loss.

The case was won by a very nice point of law. Under its articles of incorporation plaintiff had authority to do business as a mining company, that of mining and selling coal. It was brought out in the evidence that it had been doing business as a coal broker, that is, buying and selling coal at a profit. As the contract on which it was suing was a violation of its power as a corporation, the court held that it should not recover.

The case occupied the entire Thursday session of civil court. A number of witnesses testified, among which was an White L. Moss who testified as to the advance in coal prices during 1916-17.

Rev. Trigg Thomas opened the session with prayer, as usual, after which he delivered a 15-minute sermon. "A lot of men who are forever howling for liberty really want license," the evangelist declared, "if there were no one except you in Middlesboro it would be all right for you to run your car at 150 miles per hour. But as there are others, it is their rights that we have to respect." He mentioned the incident of the Pineville car that was struck by another last night.

Tomorrow will mark the closing day of civil court here. A number of cases on the docket were not reached but these will be tried at another session. Judge J. G. Forrester will go to Hinton next week to preside over circuit court there. This district being also under his jurisdiction.

The fourth Monday in February, circuit court will again convene at Pineville to try cases there. On March 12 it will convene again in Middlesboro.

DR. TRIGG THOMAS FLAYS GOSSIPERS

Sermons Increase in Interest Each Night—Services Tonight Begin at 7 O'clock

"About the meanest person I know in all the world, and the most sinful, is that woman with a galling tongue, who trots up and down the streets of your city, assassinating the character of her neighbors," said Dr. Trigg Thomas, evangelist, at the First Presbyterian church last night, in his sermon. The preacher chose those words of Peter, "Add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, and to knowledge patience, and brotherliness, and to brotherliness love," that wonderful rhapsody called, by Alexander MacClaren, "A Bazaar," and by Ian MacClaren, "A Basket of Jewels."

"My friend once wrote a book and in it he said these words which I pray may be burned and sealed into your souls. Whenever you are tempted to gossip about another, ask yourself these three questions, first, is it true; second, will the telling of it help the one about whom you are talking; and third, is it kind."

Nothing can impart to cold type the personality of the speaker and how he hurled himself against some imaginary foe when he flings out some tribute to mother on some good cause, or when he scathingly denounces some pet form of sin. Yet he is tender as a mother soothing her baby to sleep, and even as he scores sin and the sinner, a smile of winemessness crosses his face and one can see the yearning in his heart for those who stand convicted at the bar of their own conscience.

The meeting again tonight will be at 7 o'clock, on account of the Odd Fellows' banquet, at which Dr. Thomas will be one of the speakers, but the meeting on Saturday night will be at 7:30, and this is the hour set for the meetings throughout the remainder of the campaign.

ENGLAND HAS COXEY'S ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED

London Invaded By Aggregation Of Thousands From Scotland And Northern Part Of England

COMMUNISTS AND REDS ASSIST IN DEMONSTRATION

By Milton Bronner
LONDON, Jan. 26.—Not since the hard times of nearly 30 years ago when Coxe's army of unemployed marched upon Washington from all over our middle west, has any great capital of a big civilized nation seen anything like London has been experiencing an invasion from Scotland and northern England of the unemployed.

Several thousands have put in an appearance, braving the hardships of a tramp over rain-soaked roads, facing cold, hunger, lack of shelter, and probably arrest as vagrants.

Some walked 500 miles coming from North Scotland. Many are married men who left their wives and children behind. Their object was to focus attention upon their lot and to force an early meeting of Parliament to deal with the unemployment problem.

There are about 1,300,000 people out of work in Great Britain. They give many of the workless an unemployment dole. Although this runs into millions of dollars per year, the dole in many cases hardly keeps body and soul together.

In the last meetings of Parliament, the big Labor representation in the house of commons insisted that the legislature should not adjourn until something more had been done for the workless. Nevertheless Parliament was prorogued until Feb. 13.

It was then the march upon London was decided upon. Many say Communists are back of the thing. But the regular Trades Union movement is also interested and on a recent Sunday decreed that the day should be known as "National Unemployed Sunday." Over 1500 meetings of protest were held all over the United Kingdom.

The most interesting and most crucial meeting was held in London in famous Trafalgar Square. The speakers addressed the crowds from the Nelson monument. Things were done there without police interference, that would have led to wholesale arrests in American cities.

Many Communist organizations participated and brought their red flags along. Before George Lansbury, a Labor member of Parliament addressed the meeting, the crowd sang "The Red Flag" and "Lansbury sang, too."

The meeting passed a resolution denouncing the parliamentary shoddy as a manifestation of indifference to the chronic sufferings of the thousands of men, women and children affected by the unemployment. They demanded that the government treat the situation as a national emergency and either take steps to secure for them employment or else provide for them a proper standard of maintenance.

TUBERCULOSIS CAUSES
MOST DEATHS IN THIS CITY STATISTICS SHOW

More persons died of tuberculosis in this vicinity last year than from any other cause, according to figures compiled by R. P. Hutcheson, local vital statistician. Fourteen died from this cause. Tragic deaths, not including homicides, claimed the next largest number of victims, eleven having died from this cause.

Nearly all of the cases of tuberculosis were marked pulmonary. Nine deaths resulted from pneumonia many of which had their incipency in attacks of flu.

Causes of other deaths in their numerical importance follow: nephritis, six; homicides and suicides, six; dropsy, four; diphtheria four; typhoid, three; heart trouble, three; apoplexy, three; cancer, three; and pellagra, three. The remainder of the total was made up of paralysis, rheumatism, Bright's disease and a number of others. The causes of two deaths were marked unknown by the attending physician.

It is the opinion of Mr. Hutcheson that this record is not entirely complete, but it is as nearly so as it is possible to obtain. He is sending it to the state bureau of vital statistics at Louisville. The total number of deaths last year, according to this revised record, was 125. There were 276 births.

A THOUGHT

Pilate saith unto Him, What is truth?—John 18:38.

That great mystery of time, were there no others; dimly, silent, never-repeating thing called time, rolling, rushing on, swift, silent, like an all-embracing ocean-tide, on which we and the universe swim like evaluations, like apparitions which are, and then are not: this is forever very literally a miracle; a thing to strike us dumb for we have no word to speak about it.—Thomas Carlyle.

ENCOURAGING OUTLOOK FOR THE COAL FIELDS

The public is much relieved to know that the possibility of a recurrence of another coal strike for 1923 in now practically eliminated by the recent agreement in New York City between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America covering the tri-state territory of Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. Another strike this year would have worked disastrous results, not only upon the miners and operators, but as is always the case, upon the general public. Our country can ill afford to suffer the tremendous economic loss resultant from another strike.

The awful hardships and and aunts suffering which always follow in the wake of such strike cannot be reckoned. These have been brought to our own doors in the Middleboro district all too often, and we will go to almost any extreme to prevent the recurrence. We believe that surely the leaders of capital and labor can get together at the conference, table and work out an equitable agreement for all concerned. The public is praying that such may be the case, and perhaps the prayer has been answered at least in part by this New York agreement.

With the signs all good, we can breathe a sigh of relief in this district as begin to plan ahead. Local business men have been a little reluctant to make plans which another strike would make impossible of attainment, but now they may work with a greater degree of confidence.

KIWANIAN FELLOWSHIP A GOOD EXAMPLE

The cementing of municipal interests and ideals by the fine fellowship displayed last night between the Pineville and Middleboro Kiwanis Clubs is encouraging to everyone who remembers the often unpleasant occurrences in the past when the interests of Pineville and Middleboro have apparently clashed. The wholesome intercourse now between these two clubs, both loyally boosting for their own city, yet warmly commending the activities of the other, is doing much to live down any prejudices on either side which may have existed.

Pineville is Pineville with a splendid citizenship and a progressive group of business men. She has reason to be proud of her people and her possibilities. Middleboro people recognize fully the charm of their sister city, and if one spark of ill will exists it should be extinguished forever. We feel that our Kiwanis club has already done that.

And Middleboro is Middleboro, with room to grow, with ideals for the future. Pineville citizens do not begrudge what Middleboro is doing or hopes to do, because this great section is just at the beginning of its big development, and the two cities must inevitably prosper together.

Let us all pull together, boost together and put Pineville and Middleboro on the map. The railroads are here, the great highways are coming, and it will take a progressive citizenship to keep abreast of the rapid developments. And every man, woman and child in our sister cities believe that we have as good a citizenship as can be found on the face of the earth. Prosperity is bound to come.

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Some people sent valentines post cards. Nancy couldn't help reading them as she put them into the mail boxes at bakery five post-office.

These were valentines for nearly everybody, even for those woodland folk who had not returned from Dreamland. Then mail would be waiting for them when they came back.

One to Phil Frog went. Your vest is white, your coat is green.

You look just like the Fairy Queen. And if at last a bug you see, Just give a hop and think of me. "Crazy!" said Nancy.

"That's a home made one," declared Mr. Stamps.

"Aren't they all home-made?" asked Nick.

"Goodness, no," answered Mr. Stamps, perfectly surprised. "There's a little fairy called called oh, I forget what he's called who writes valentines to order. Nice ones funny ones, ugly ones loving ones—oh, just any kind at all. If I have it, He's called 'Forget-me-not'."

"Here's one he wrote it's for Chick Chickadee, to send to Belinda Bluebird. She'll be here very soon from the South. Listen.

"Robins are red, and bluebirds are blue. Skylarks sing sweetly and so do you. I looked in the East, I looked in the West, But you are the one I love the best!"

"That's a fine one!" said Nancy. "I think the chickadee has some manners. Did anyone send him any? He's stayed around the woods all winter and I think he deserves some."

They looked over the mail, but there was none for the little gray bird. So Nancy wrote one like this: Chickadee-dee, way up in your tree.

Old winter will soon be over And soon 'twill be spring and then you can sing All day long 'mid the daisies and clover.

"He'll be ever so much obliged," said Mr. Stamps kindly. "He's a nice little fellow. Oh say! Just look at this. A perfect whale of a valentine for Miss Pie from Buster Brown. Buster is away off in Dreamland. He must have written it there!"

Berton Braley's Daily Poem

TRANSMUTATIONS

By Berton Braley

The threnodies are three, the monads, four. While deep across the spaces comes the tone Of soundless harmonies that sob and moan, Beating against our hearts with "Nevermore."

Pillid and black the frozen breakers roar Upon the yielding surface of the stone.

While far across the desert wastes unknown Looms the dim horror of a viewless shore.

Hold hard my hands; lean close and far away, Bleak are your eyes as gardens of the slain,

When the dust of Babylon has lain Whiting the dawning of a bygone day.

Even as these we sundered spirits may Sweep down upon the mountains from the plain, Headless or all we seek or can attain Through mythic veils that droop in sodden gray!

Ah, blind, grim gods of mystery and doubt, Gazing upon us with dull eyes aslant, Can you explain what this is all about? Go to it, then, for goodness knows I can't!

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN

By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, living with her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor, CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.

DOROTHY, Kate is much perturbed. A few evenings later Kate and her father find the unconscious victim of an auto crash near their home and carry him in. Recovering, he gives his name as JAMES LATHAM and meets Kate, who, fond of him yet remembers Dan and does not know what to say. Then a letter arrives from Alice begging Kate's aid. Accompanied by Latham, Kate hurries to the girl's home but finds he absent.

At this point a strange woman who had heard her inquiries, approaches.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"What did you want of Alice?" asked the woman. Her tone was low. There was a trace of suspicion in it. Kate immediately cataloged her as a friend of the girl's.

"I wanted to see her," she replied. "Friend of hers?" the woman persisted.

"Yes—a friend of hers," Kate repeated. Then, "Do you know where she is? I want her very much."

"And that I can't tell you," said the woman. "I am the only friend she's got around here except the folks at the laundry, but she don't even tell me where she goes these days."

"And we've been friends for a good many years," the woman went on. "I knew Alice when she first started out for herself."

"How long ago was that?" Kate asked. She had often wondered about Alice's earlier life.

"About 10 years ago," reminiscently. "She couldn't a' been more'n 15 then. Pretty a little devil as ever I seen. And gay! Maybe you think she didn't have the beaux! She might a' been a fine lady now if she hadn't fallen for the wrong man."

"And say," she lowered her voice, "I've got a snaking idea that's where she is now. She fell dead for this man, couldn't see no other, and him just a plain tramp, living any way he could.

"Alice and me were keeping bachelor rooms when she met this fellow. I don't know how she happened to hit a off with me. I was on the stage, you know, dancing, and fell. I never got over it enough to go back again. I wasn't doing much of anything when Alice came along and she wasn't doing much either, so we put our cups and saucers together and decided the bacon'd go farther if it was all fried in one pan. Many a time that girl's shared her last dime with me, 'cause she always could get along better than I could, being prettier and about 10 years younger."

"Then this guy came along and Alice left me. But she never forgot me—always came back, bringing me things." The woman hesitated. "Every once in a while she'd come back and stay with me a week or two. Then she'd go away again."

"But for the past three years she's been living right here, and me too. Once in a while, like now, she goes away, saying nothing of where she's going and doesn't come back for a day or two."

"And when she does come," the woman's voice became thoughtful, "she always looks as if she's been crying a lot."

"She was a slave to that man—I think she's still keeping in touch with him, no account as he is."

"She married him then?" Kate asked.

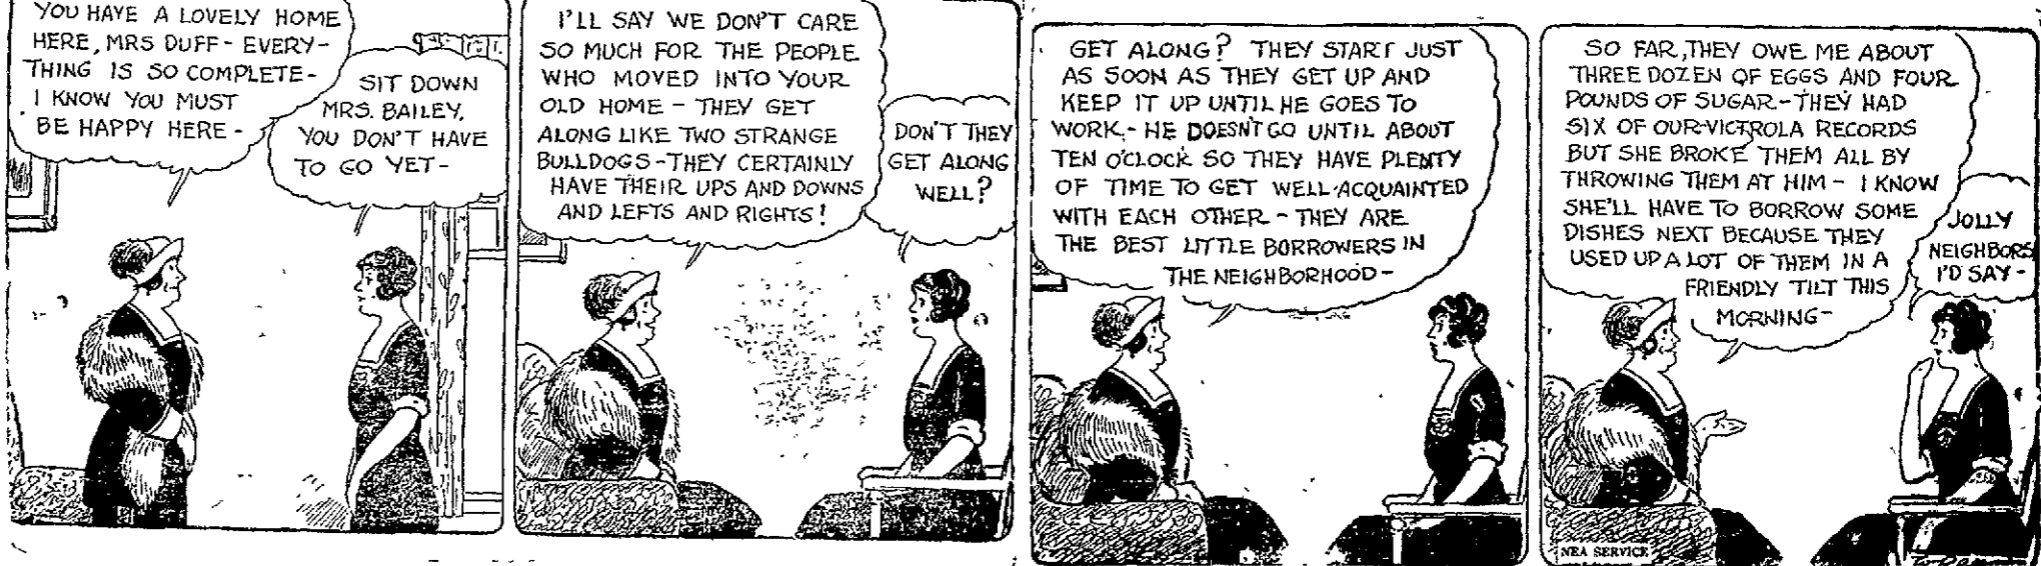

"Married him?" repeated the woman. "Law child, I don't know, I never saw their marriage license—but she's the best little friend I ever had."

WINTER COLOR

Gray-green snow on the hillside steep
With high-lights of silver white,
Trees etched in purple hair-lines
In the blue-gray winter sky.

Gray-green pools in the meadows lie
As mirrors of silver blaze,
Reflecting the purple billows
Of the blue-gray winter sky.

Gray-green lichens to the tree-boughs cling,
Where hangs the silver moss
Festooned in purple garlands
Against the blue-gray winter sky.

Good

Manners

Once on a time it was a rude man who failed to yield his seat to a woman. That time's past. It's no count against a man if he KEEPS his seat when a woman enters the car.
But he shouldn't TAKE one if she is already inside and standing. She may properly ASK for a seat only if ill or much exhausted.

Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

Too Much Meat Hurts Kidneys

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up, and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

More than 1,500 men and women connected with the service are expected to respond to the call issued

STATE OBSERVANCE CHILD LABOR DAY

Kentucky Association Issues Proclamation With Reference to Day January 28

By Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28.—The Kentucky Child Labor Association today issued the following statement with reference to observing Child Labor Day on January 28:

Every year throughout America, Child Labor Day is observed in the churches, Sunday schools, synagogues, public schools, clubs, wherever people are interested in the welfare and the rights of children. This year the last Sunday in January has been designated as Child Labor Day. Observance of Child Labor Day is a means of spreading the gospel of childhood. It is a time of creating sentiment against evils which by no means have ceased to exist.

Since the National Committee was organized in 1904 every state has made some improvement in its child labor laws. The investigations, publicity, bill drafting and legislative work of the committee, the public opinion created, have been largely responsible for these improvements. However much remains to be done. Since the United States Supreme Court declared the federal child labor law unconstitutional, on May 15, 1922, thousands of children can now go back to factories, mills and mine work, prohibited under the federal act. Therefore, congress must be given power to protect the nation's children where individual states are slow to acting. To meet this need, a constitutional amendment is necessary.

The Kentucky Child Labor Association, centered in Louisville, numbers among its officers and executive committee, such men as: Judge Huston Quin of Louisville, Harry B. Mackay of Covington, Dr. A. T. McCormack of Bowling Green, Miss Frances Jewell of Lexington, Mrs. Edmund Post of Paducah and President Frank L. McVey of the University of Kentucky. This association through the aid of the National Association has sent literature to ministers of every church throughout the state of Kentucky. This literature sets forth the need for the constitutional amendment, and it is hoped that the clergymen in Kentucky, and the people of every community will observe this day by some appropriate exercise.

There was quite a number of children along the road returning from school, but it seems that for some reason they did not all get out of the road, although young Arnold drove into a ditch trying to avoid hitting any of them. Tommy was cut-up and bruised considerably, but she is recovering rapidly.

Clyde, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rowlett, has been quite ill this week.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

NONE TOO SOON TO PLAN YOUR VALENTINE PARTY

By MARIAN HALE

It's not too soon to plan your valentine party.

Valentine's is one of the most popular holidays in the year for entertaining. It is well to plan for it in advance and send out your invitations early.

There are many novelties in invitations—small red hearts that fit into heart-shaped envelopes, or white cards decorated with hearts or cupids, with the invitation completely worded save for the names.

Those who like to write their own invitations will find all shapes, sizes and colors of stationery, and hearts and cupids cut out and gummed, waiting to be added.

Make Pretty Invitations

Old-fashioned valentines, with lace paper and sentimental verses, make appropriate invitations, so do the old combs.

The valentine party rarely takes the form of a masquerade, but the hostess usually plans cups and favors for the guests, to give a festive air to the event.

Almost any crude cap of crepe paper can be made highly decorative by adding long tassels or fringe at either side.

Heart necklaces of cardboard with a ruffle of red crepe paper hung about the neck on a ribbon are effective and easily made.

The jazz bracelet is a novelty consisting of a ribbon to be worn about the wrist, with long red and white crepe paper streamers.

Styles in Dress

Huge cardboard and crepe paper fans hung with fringe and hearts and red paper sashes with white hearts will make any costume look quite festive, while girdles or full skirts of red fringed paper, on the

TWO COLORS NEEDED FOR EACH DRESS

The newest dresses for small girls are made of two colors. Usually two colors in the same material, but sometimes two materials as well.

Wool crepe and tweeds are used for heavy dresses and they are trimmed with collars and cuffs of silk crepe. Party dresses and daytime dresses are made of flat crepe, crepe de chine and cotton crepe. Of the lighter materials heavy Irish linen is favored, especially in bright colors, and other thin dresses are made of imported ginghams.

Trimnings are varied and include wool embroidery ribbons and inserts of lace and fabrics. But the important thing to remember is that the dress is made of two colors no matter how simple otherwise it may be.

TODAY'S RECIPES

CHEESE PUDDING

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

1 pound mild cheese
3 slightly beaten eggs
1 1-2 cups thin cream or top milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mustard

Several slices buttered bread

Line a buttered baking dish with the bread, cut into strips, touching each other. Fill dish with cheese and eggs mixed with milk and seasonings. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven and serve immediately. With light, green salad, rolls and coffee, makes a delicious luncheon or supper combination.

CREAMY COFFEE DROPS

1-2 cupful very strong coffee; 2 cupfuls light brown sugar; 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar; a choice of vanilla, cinnamon and clove, on maple flavoring.

Combine all the ingredients, except the flavoring in a medium sized saucepan; stir over a slow heat until dissolved, then do not stir any further but cook until a soft ball is formed when a little of the mixture is tried in cold water, that is, 238 degrees F. by the candy thermometer. Cool until lukewarm, flavor, beat until creamy, transfer to a small pitcher and drop onto oiled paper, in amounts large enough to form candies of the shape of an ordinary cream peppermint.

COFFEE CAKE

1-2 cup butter; 1-2 cup sugar; 3 eggs, beaten; 3 tablespoons strong coffee; 1 3-4 cups flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter and sugar together, then add eggs, beat well, also add coffee, and sift in flour and baking powder. Turn into a greased and peppered tin and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes. When cold cover with boiled frosting.

The Pineville Hop Club will give a dance at the Pineville Hotel Friday night. The Montague Orchestra from Lexington will furnish the music. Guests are expected from Middlesboro, Harlan and the surrounding community.
